

06 Covid Chronicle - Sports section

Newspapers and news websites are made up of different sections about different topics. Today you are going to write a sports report about a sporting event or game you have witnessed recently.

It could be about some family exercise you have done such as an exercise video, run, walk, bike ride or trampolining in the garden. Or it could be about a board game or card game you have played with your family.

Some ideas to help you:

- Say when the event took place - give the date, and the location (where it happened)
- You could include an interview with some of the players.
- Comment on the final result, even if it was a non competitive event you could always pretend it was a competition and award a winner!
- Write about any unexpected events that happened during the sport or game.

Here are a few examples - you can use these for ideas to write your own sports report. Don't forget a headline!

Who licks Joe Wicks?

There was great shock in the Trevitt household on Monday 25th May when some of the team turned on Joe Wicks. Previously the two tiny Trevitts and Mrs Trevitt had been taking full part in the Joe Wicks session with seemingly no problems. However at 9.15am Ben Trevitt turned to the TV and aimed a full face lick at Joe Wicks. Thankfully for the PE coach he wasn't looking at the camera at the time so the lick only skimmed the side of his cheek and caused no damage. Other participants were so upset they felt unable to continue with the session, Zoe Trevitt said "This is not fair on Joe, he has done nothing unkind, I just can't believe anyone would want to lick him". When asked for comment on what had caused his unusual behaviour Ben Trevitt held up his hands and said "No further comment, this is a personal matter". Everyone awaits to see what happens in the next session and lives in hope that Ben Trevitt can keep his tongue to himself.

Animal snap champion

Today saw the start of a week long tournament of animal snap begin in the Trevitt house. Having qualified for the games last week Zoe Trevitt played the reigning champion Daddy at 9am. The game was tense and could have gone either way until Zoe played the second elephant on top of an elephant which had just been laid as Daddy's last card. In a skillful move Zoe slammed her hand on top of the pair of elephants and declared herself the winner. Daddy appealed to the referee as he claimed he had heard no "snap" from the other player meaning they were not entitled to claim the pile of cards. VAR (Video Assistant Referee) was consulted which showed that Zoe had said a super quiet "snap" which had been drowned out by the sound of her hands slapping. Zoe goes on to the next round where she faces her nemesis Ben Trevitt in the game of their lives.

Trampolining winner chooses dinner!

An unusual contest began in the Trevitt back garden on the afternoon of Tuesday 26th May - a trampolining show where the winner got to choose dinner for that day. It was assessed by nationally acclaimed trampolining judge Ben Trevitt. The first contestant was Mrs Trevitt who failed to keep her feet together and was awarded an embarrassingly low score of 2/10. Next up was Mr Trevitt who had good poise and great height but couldn't pull off his seated to standing bounce and came out with 4/10. Last on the bouncer was Zoe Trevitt who astonished the judge with her gracefulness and skilled acrobatics, she was crowned with winner with a score of 9/10, only let down by her unsportsmanlike blowing of raspberries at the other contestants. As her prize she chose bangers and mash for dinner - a well deserved win for this local champion.
